

Big Ears, Little Ears

Why:

To make everyone laugh! This is like a puzzle, where children match the ears to the animal. It can also be an opportunity to talk about ears and hearing.

What you need:

- Pictures of animals
- Scissors
- Glue or Blu-tac

How to use this resource:

- Cut the ears off the animals. Stick the animal's heads (without their ears) to some paper.
- Help your child match the right ears to the right animal.
- Make some mistakes so your child laughs; then you can talk about it and fix the ears up together.
- Talk to children about how animals need their ears to hear. No ears = no hearing!

Talking points:

- This activity is developed as an opportunity to talk about ears and hearing.
- Healthy ears mean strong listening for learning and language.
